

DISTRIBUTED LINK MANAGEMENT FUNCTIONS

ABSTRACT

A system includes a control card that has a control processor to execute a control portion 5 of link management. The system also includes a line card having a line processor to execute an offload portion of link management. A communications port allows the system to access a high-capacity communications link and a backplane allows the control card and the line card to communicate.